Broward League of Cities is proud to spotlight its Associate Member, the law firm of Weiss Serota Helfman Pastoriza Cole & Boniske. The prominent South Florida law firm serves corporate, governmental and individual clients and works closely with many cities in Broward County.

The firm serves as the city attorney for Miramar, Weston, Cooper City and Lauderdale-by-the-Sea, and frequently handles high profile issues with substantial impact on municipalities, such as growth management and property tax reform.

Through the active participation of its partners, including Susan Trevarthen, who serves on the League's Growth Management Committee, Matt Mandel, who chairs the League's Leadership Development Committee, and Jamie Cole and David Wolpin, who provide insight and counsel on an ongoing basis to the League as a whole, the firm maintains a strong relationship with the Broward League of Cities

"The Broward League of Cities provides leadership on matters of local, regional, state and national concern, and increases the visibility of issues confronting cities every day," Trevarthen said. "This increased awareness is an important element in reaching successful outcomes for all residents and businesses within Broward's municipalities."

Weiss Serota Helfman Pastoriza Cole & Boniske supports the League's mission to raise awareness and resolve issues facing the 31 municipalities in Broward County. Its staff of skilled and experienced professionals believes that this cooperative concept is critical to finding solutions.

"The firm is committed to working with community leaders, government officials and the general public to provide legal counsel and advice for the improvement of Broward municipalities," Trevarthen added. "We are proud to be part of the Broward League of Cities and to participate in its vision, dialogue and exchange of ideas to benefit the community."
