hrdubosar@wsh-law.com

Harrison is a partner in the Firm's Litigation Division and focuses his practice on commercial litigation matters and appeals. Harrison's work includes representation of clients on complex partnership and business disputes, commercial landlord/tenant disputes, securities fraud and EB-5 fraud. Harrison also serves as outside general corporate counsel to a medical group and a commercial/residential real estate group.

While in law school, Harrison served on two law journals, the student supreme court, and was a member of the moot court board. Prior to law school, Harrison earned a Master's degree in Public Administration at the Askew School of Public Policy. While earning his Master's, he worked for the Disaster Incident Research Team and as an analyst for the Florida Highway Patrol. Harrison also previously served as a legislative assistant in the Florida House of Representatives.
