Christina focuses her practice on insurance defense and related civil litigation matters. She defends clients through all phases of litigation, from pre-suit investigations through trial preparation. Having represented clients ranging from large corporations to individuals, Christina understands that effective representation requires a tailored approach responsive to each client's specific needs and the unique demands of each case.

Before joining the firm, Christina practiced at a South Florida litigation firm, representing clients in general liability and automobile accident matters. She managed discovery, drafted dispositive and non-dispositive motions, took and defended depositions, and advocated for clients inside and outside of the courtroom.

Earlier in her career, Christina served as in-house counsel for a specialty finance company, advising on labor and employment law, risk and compliance matters, negotiated contracts and vendor agreements, and supported policy and regulatory updates affecting business operations.

Christina earned her Juris Doctor from the University of Alabama School of Law, where she served as Notes Editor of the Alabama Civil Rights & Civil Liberties Law Review and mediated family law matters
