

FIRST YEAR LAW AND COLLEGE STUDENTS DIVERSITY INTERNSHIP PROGRAM

ELIGIBILITY

The Weiss Serota Helfman Cole & Bierman Diversity Internship Program is designed to afford first-year law students attending South Florida law schools, students who are a part of the Florida Memorial University (FMU) Legal Scholars program, and students in the Paralegal Studies program at Broward College (BC) the opportunity for paid summer employment. To be eligible, students must demonstrate a clear commitment to or interest in diversity and inclusion (this may include, among other things, being a member of a protected category based on disability, gender, race, ethnicity, sexual orientation, gender identity, and/or gender expression or demonstrating a clear historical commitment to diversity or inclusion activities). Students who participate in the Firm's ten-week summer program will be afforded the rare opportunity to gain professional experience by working side-by-side with attorneys in our various practice groups.
